All the children sit still when the teacher reads. At the end of the book, all the children clap.
Everyone loves story time at school. The children love to hear the teacher read to them.

On some days, the teacher picks the book. On some days, the children pick the book.