

Vocabulary Filters: A Framework for Choosing Which Words to Teach in Stories

Elfrieda H. Hiebert

TextProject & University of California Santa Cruz

1. The nature and quantity of the “unique” words of narratives
(i.e., words beyond the core vocabulary)
2. Choosing words to teach: The Vocabulary Filter™ Process
3. Strategies for teaching “narrative” words
 - ❖ As part of Vocabulary Filters, two of the components of instruction:
 - A metalinguistic stance
 - Direct instruction of semantic clusters, morphological families, & word changes
 - ❖ Indirect instruction is also critical:
 - Extensive reading with records
 - Read-alouds
 - Exceptional Expressions in Everyday Events (E4)

The nature and quantity of the + “unique” words of narratives (i.e., words beyond the core vocabulary)

Words in American Schoolbooks

% of 17.25 million words

(Zeno et al., 1995)
www.textproject.org

Sources of English

(from Calfee & Drum, 1986)

Greek/Latin

Specialized words used mostly in science

EX: thermometer, geography

New Words through compounding of word parts: thermosphere, geopolitical

Romance

1066 (Norman Conquest)-1399 (Henry IV, a native Anglo-Saxon speaker assumes throne): French is spoken by upper classes; English by lower-classes. French loan words remain.

EX: frigid, perspiration, soil

New Words through derivations: frigidity, frigidness, refrigerator

Anglo-Saxon

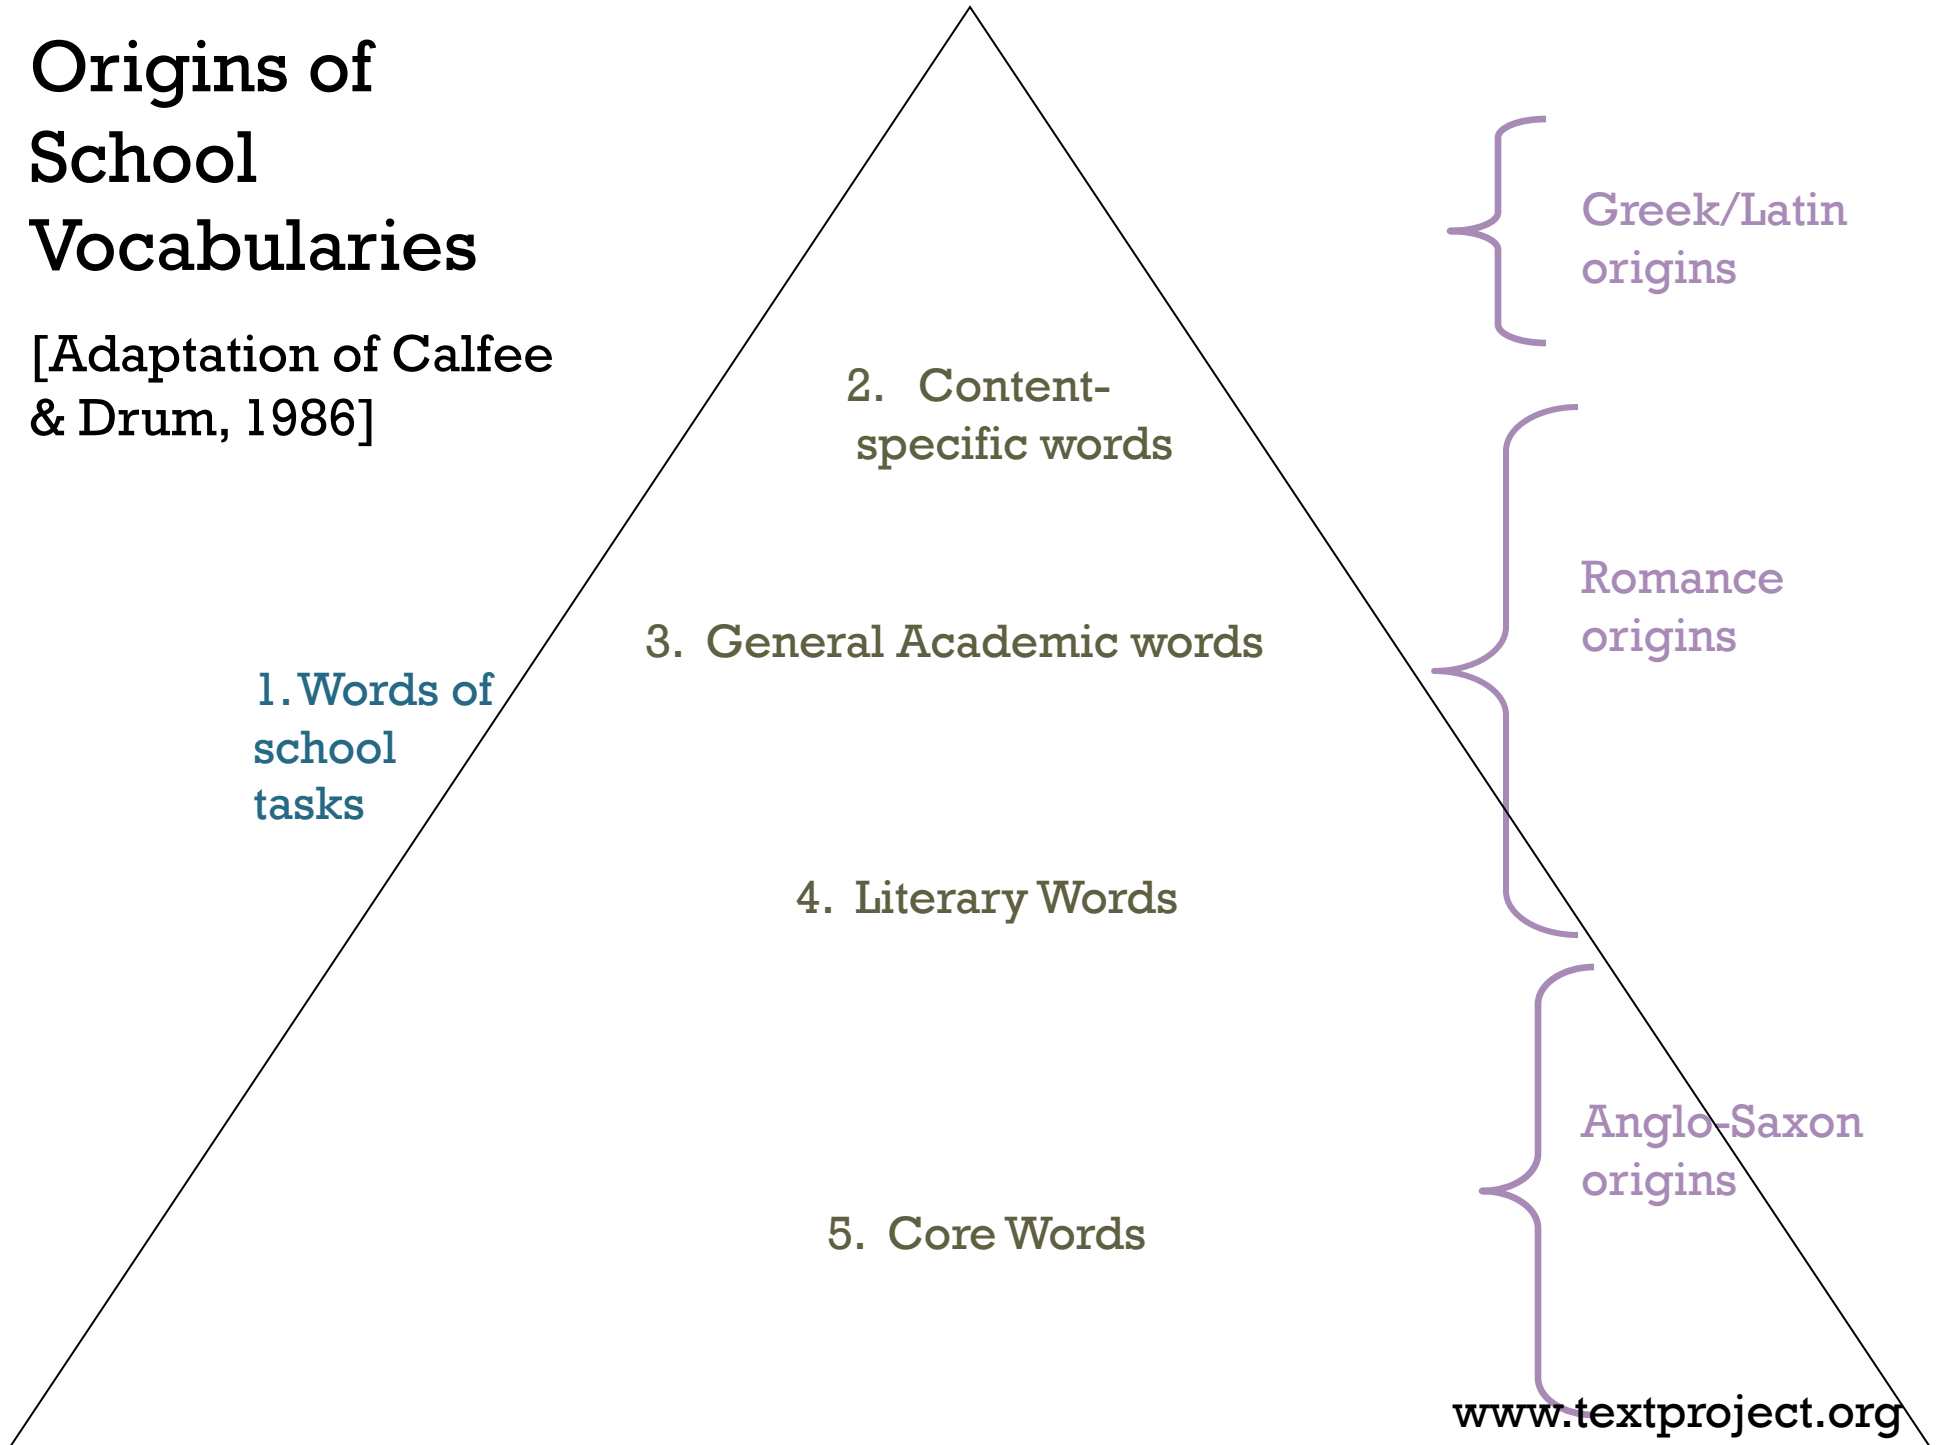

Common, everyday, down-to-earth words

EX: cold, sweat, dirt

New Words through compounding: cold-blooded, cold-natured, cold-drink, cold-running

Origins of School Vocabularies

[Adaptation of Calfee & Drum, 1986]

1. Words of school tasks

2. Content-specific words

3. General Academic words

4. Literary Words

5. Core Words

Greek/Latin origins

Romance origins

Anglo-Saxon origins

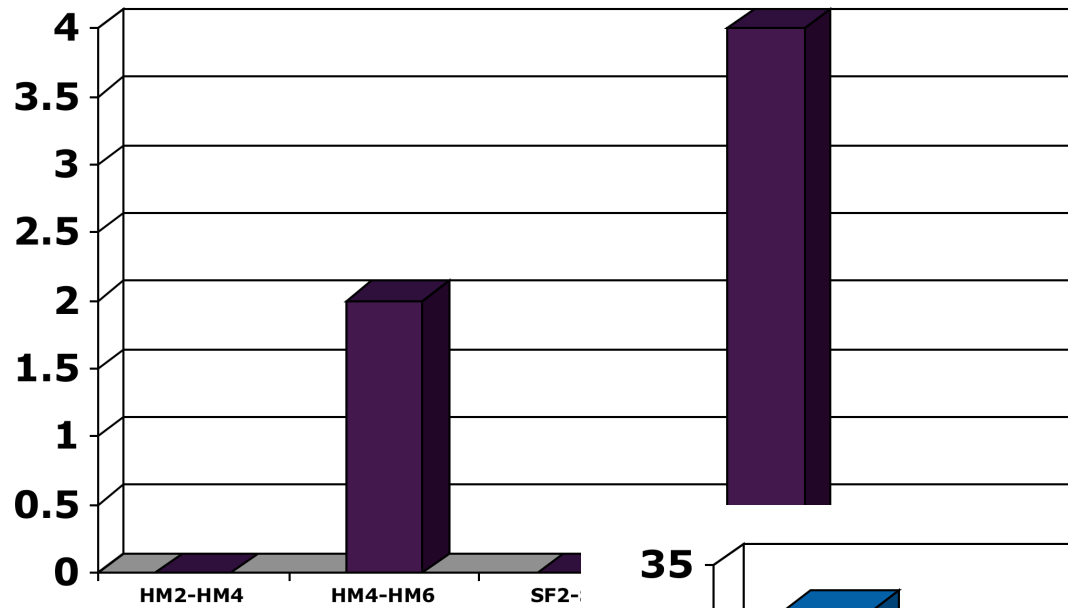

www.textproject.org

What's different in the vocabularies of narrative & informational texts?

Percentage of conceptually complex words is higher in informational than in narrative texts. It is conceptual complexity of words that influences learning.

	Categories 1-3	Category 4
Narrative	100% (slithering, wincing, kindling, gestures)
Science	64% (absorb, microscope)	36% (e.g.: fermentation, cytoplasm)

Rare words are repeated more frequently in informational than narrative texts.

Reading/Language Arts

Science

Concepts/vocabulary is less specified in standards

Content Area	Sample Words
Civics	abuse of power, campaign, elected representative, geographical representation, individual liberty, Labor Day, national origin, patriotism, school board, Uncle Sam, welfare
English Language Arts	abbreviation, capitalization, e-mail, genre, illustration, learning log, paragraph, reading strategy, table, verb
Geography	billboards, discovery, fall line, harbor, Japan, land clearing, national capital, Pacific rim, rain forest, technology, vegetation region
Mathematics	addend, capacity, equation, gram, improbability, mass, obtuse angle, quotient, sample, unit conversion
Science	bedrock, Earth's axis, gases, inherited characteristic, magnetic attraction, ocean currents, recycle, technology, water capacity

From Marzano (2004)

+ Choosing words to teach in narrative texts: The Vocabulary Filter™ Process

The Focus Words in a Unit in a Core Reading Program (Gr. 4)

The Stranger	Adelina's Whales	How Night Came from the Sea	Eyes of the Storm	The Great Kapok Tree parlor	rumbling	massive	forecasts	dangle draft	tropical	coward	inland	pollinate frost	biologist	gleamed	expected	wondrous terror	bluff	chorus	shatter	fragrant fascinated	lagoon	shimmering	destruction	pollen quaint	encounter*	brilliant	surge	canopy timid	exhaling*	dwells*	potential*	dappled etched		reigns*	withstand*	slithered drab*			wreckage*	gash*
hermit*				lulled*
hypnotized*

*not tested

The Stranger (Chris van Allsburg): (Grade 4, Theme 3, Story 1) draft etched fascinated frost parlor terror timid drab*

hermit*
hypnotized*

*Not tested words

Filter #1: Words You Already Know

The new word can be explained easily/quickly with a synonym or, possibly, a phrase with words that students recognize and understand. [And it is a word that is likely already known by most students.]

The new word is likely easy to read (i.e., it has one-two syllables).

Highlighted vocabulary	44
Filter 1	10
	34 draft etched fascinated frost

parlor
terror timid drab*
hermit*
hypnotized*

Filter #2: Words you can picture

If an illustration/photo communicates a concept efficaciously, use it (especially for English Language Learners).

Highlighted vocabulary	34 (44-10)
Filter 2	12
	22

draft etched fascinated frost
parlor
terror timid drab*
hermit*
hypnotized*

1. etched: carved or engraved

Words and a picture have been _____ onto this piece of metal.

2. draft: a breeze or air moving

The windmill is making a _____ that is lifting off the seeds from the plants.

3. frost: ice

The branches of the trees are covered with _____.

4. hermit: a person who chooses to live alone, often very quietly

The _____ lived alone far from town in the woods. He spent his days in silence.

Filters 3 & 4: The “Focus” Words

- The 22 words that remain after Filters 1 and 2 have been applied become the focus words for the next two filters.
 - For The Stranger: 3 words:

draft
etched fascinated frost
parlor
terror timid drab*
hermit*
hypnotized*

Filter #3: Word Meaning Families

Words belong to particular semantic groups: The words within these semantic groups have connotations, nuances, and specific meanings that are associated but often have distinct applications.

Particular semantic groups are likely more critical for comprehension of narratives than other groups of words. In particular, words that give insights into the thinking/traits of characters or the circumstances of plot/resolution are important:

- Cognitive/perceptual actions
- Communication
- Feelings and values

Vocabulary Megaclusters™

Narrative
Dominant

Narrative/
Content
Shared

Content
Dominant

Vocabulary Megacluster	Examples
Emotions/Attitudes	frightened, upset
Character Traits	lazy, faithful
Social Relationships	potential, unique

Vocabulary Megacluster	Examples
Communication	announce, warn
Characters	politicians, neighbors
Action & Motion	nudged, juggling
Comparatives & Causes	transformed, spectacular
Place/Events	Mexico, festivals
Physical Attributes (Objects, Events, Time)	patterns, overnight
Social Systems	movie, soccer

Vocabulary Megacluster	Examples
Human Body	sweat, gash
Natural Environment	sloth, hurricanes
Machines	plastic, computer

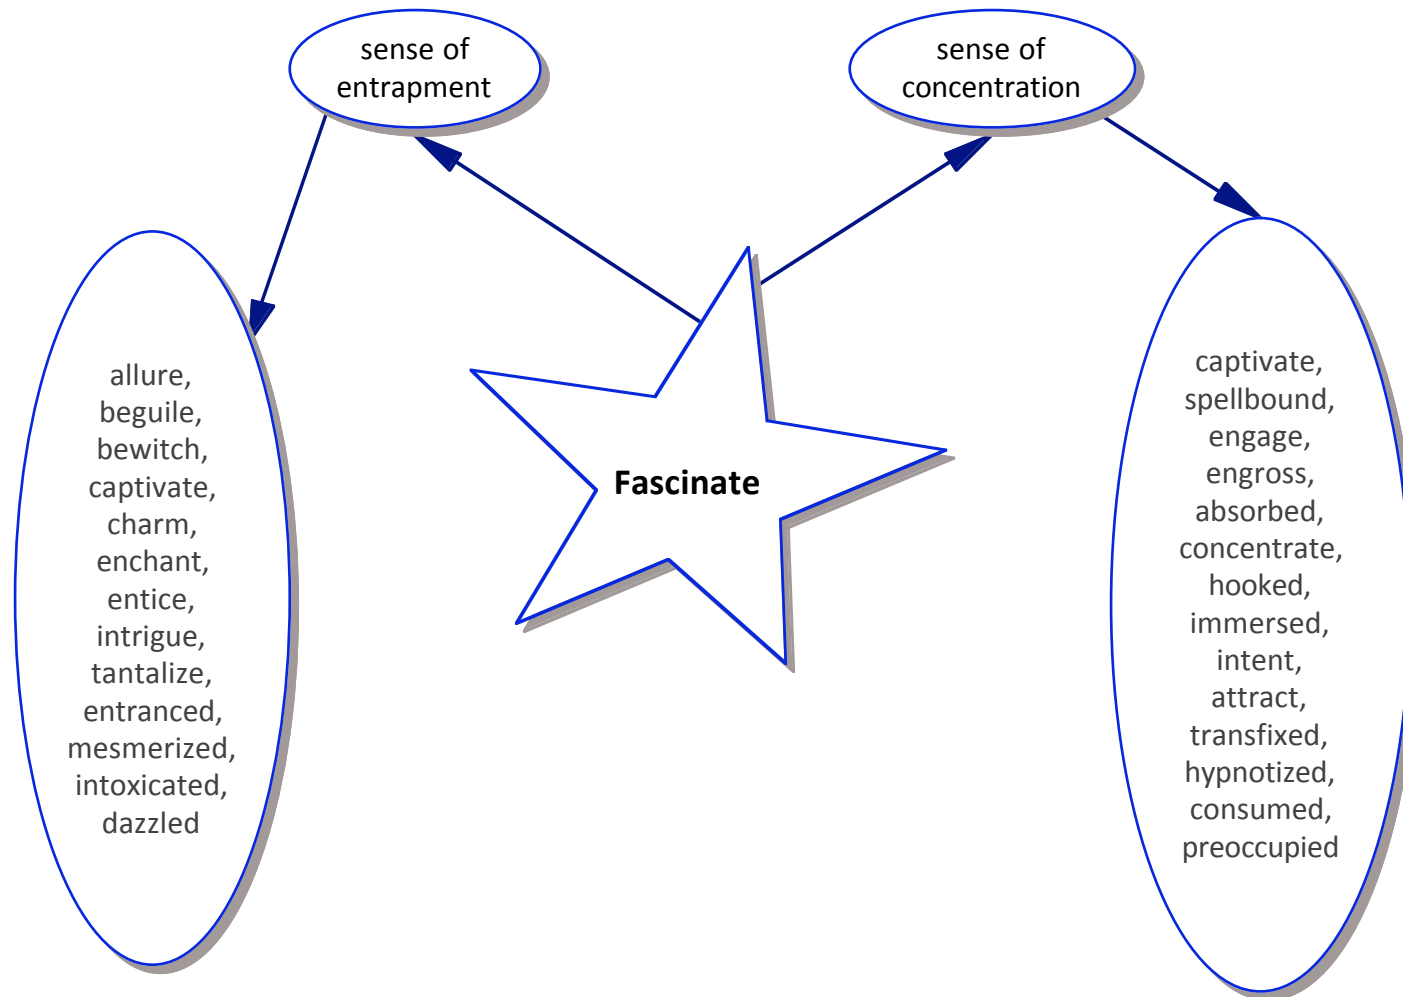

Focusing On The Meaning Of A Focus Word:

Part 1: Identify the key meaning (and part of speech) as well as the origin of the word (because knowing the origin helps you know how a word acts in English)

Parts of speech	adjective or verb
Definition	to interest you very much Etymology	from the Latin word fascinum meaning use of (evil) magic

Focusing On The Meaning Of A Focus Word: Part 2: Using thesauruses, generate semantic families

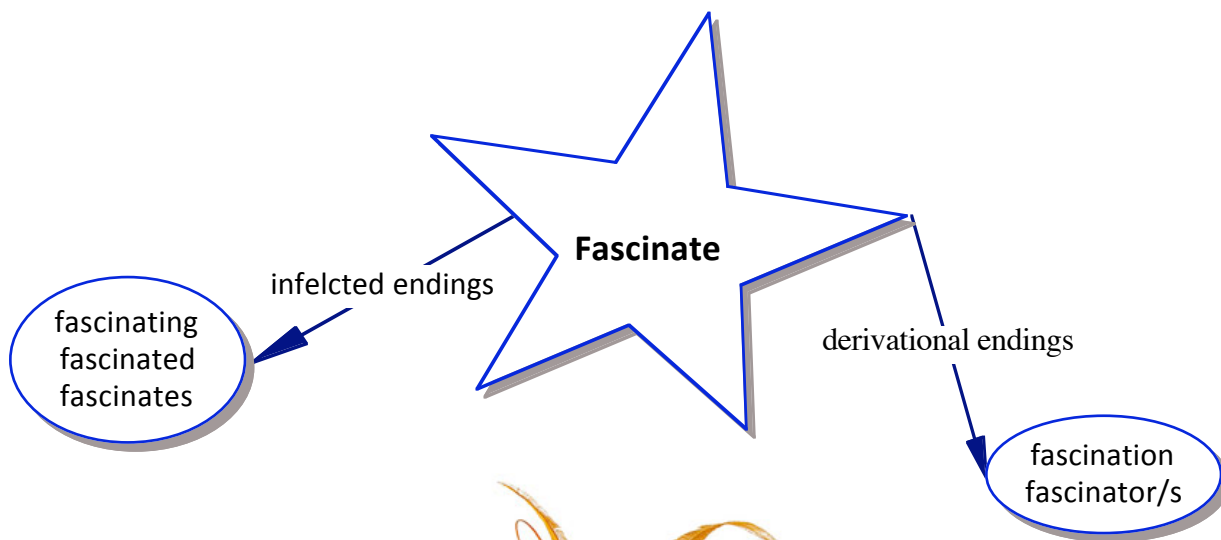

Focusing On The Meaning Of A Focus Word:

Part 3: Use the word in a variety of contexts, including comparing/contrasting the meanings of words within the same semantic family.

Filter #4: Word Part Families

- Many words belong to families of words that have the same root words and meanings.
- Many words that came to English from French/Latin share a common root word with Spanish words

Filter #5: Word Changes

- Many words in English, especially those that are used frequently, have multiple meanings.
- When words are in compound words or phrases, they may take on unique meanings. These meanings can be idiosyncratic.
- Some words share the same pronunciation with other words, even though they are spelled differently.

For the fifth filter--Word Changes--all of the words in the group are considered.

Word Changes

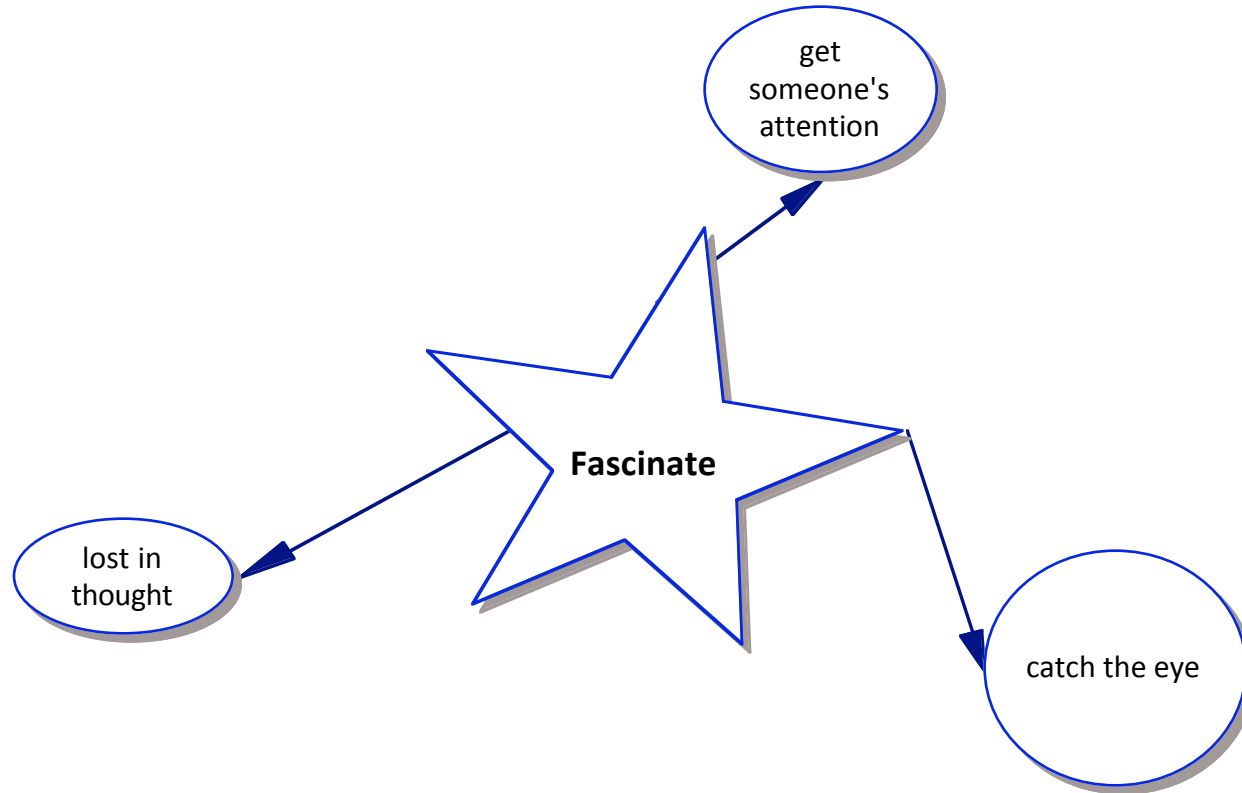

Sometimes, the same word can have different meanings. Words often change their meanings when they are in special phrases called idioms.

Word Change 1: Compound Words

Hermit You now know the meaning of the word hermit. The word hermit is used in several compound words that name animals. Write a sentence about what you think these animals might be like.

	Animal characteristics Hermit crab hermit-bird hermit sheep

Word Change 2: Idioms & Phrases

Word Change 3: Many different meanings

draft

The word draft comes from an old word (draught) that means to draw, or pull in. Today we usually spell the word as draft. Draft has come to mean many things. Write about what you think the meaning might be.

	I think that this could mean....
Draft/draught horse Drafted into the army Rough draft
Draft of money
Air draft Drafting table
Football draft picks

Word Change 4: Examine connections between English words and those in Latin-based languages

English	Common root word	Spanish word hermit	eremita	ermitas fascinate	fascinare	fascinado hypnotize	hypno	hypnotizado timid	timidus	timido

Word Summary

Words are part of families or networks. When you learn the members of a word's family, your vocabulary grows.

WORDS THAT I LEARNED WITH THE STORY, THE STRANGER

Story Word	Word Meaning Family	Word Part Family	Multiple Meanings	Compound Words & Idioms
drab
draft etched fascinated frost hermit
hypnotized parlor
timid

The Vocabulary Filter Process™

A way of teaching the critical and/or identified words from a narrative text in a core reading program

Every word in English can't be taught. For example, a new invention brings with it new words and new meanings to existing words. BUT: We can support students in developing a metalinguistic sense about English vocabulary.

3. Strategies for teaching “narrative” words

As part of Vocabulary Filters, two of the components of instruction:

- A metalinguistic stance
- Direct instruction of semantic clusters, morphological families, & word changes

Indirect instruction is also critical:

- Extensive reading with records
- Read-alouds
- Exceptional Expressions in Everyday Events (E4)

Exceptional Expressions for Everyday Events

Talking is, of course, a ubiquitous human activity. In schools, students talk to one another in the classroom, on the playground, or in the lunchroom. Teachers talk to give instruction or to counsel students. Students talk to teachers to respond to questions or to express a concern. Describing different types of talking is one way to bring exceptional expressions into everyday events.

The word talk can be used as a verb as well as a noun. To talk is to communicate verbally, through speaking rather than writing. Since the way we talk carries with it our emotions and goals, spoken communication can take many forms. Shouting, whispering, and preaching convey very different attitudes on the part of the speaker, which in turn will affect the reactions of those who hear what is said.

Talk as a noun is the act of verbally communicating. A teacher can have a talk with his or her students about bullying. As with the verb talk, there are a variety of synonyms for the noun talk. For example, a teacher can have a serious discussion or conversation about bullying.

Follow-Ups

- How is articulating different from talking?
- How might a discussion be different from an utterance? A speech?

The Spanish Connection

Talk comes from a Middle English word, talkien or talken. The Spanish word for to talk is hablar. Hablar is not a Spanish cognate of to talk.

Word Changes

- Some synonyms of talk are also used as both verbs and nouns, for example, chat, lecture, and gossip.
- Many of the idioms and common phrases for talk incorporate the mannerism and intent of the speaker. For example, a person who “talks big” is someone who is boasting. “To talk in circles” is to repeat the same idea in a different manner that reveals nothing new and may even confuse the listener.

Graphic organizer for semantic family and morphological family of this everyday word and 31 others can be found at www.textproject.org

