Sleet and Hail

LEVEL C-11 Weather | Book 2

written by Elfrieda H. Hiebert & Wendy Svec

Sleet looks like small, round balls of ice.

Sleet and hail can make a car slip on a road.

They can make you slip too.

So take care during this kind of weather.

Sleet forms mostly in winter but hail can form in spring, summer, or fall.

Sleet is a kind of weather.

Water falls from the sky as rain.

But it turns to sleet if the ground air is cold.

Hail can bounce off your windows.

Hail is a lot like sleet.

It, too, falls from the sky when it is cold and wet out.

But hail looks like big, funny shapes of ice.
