

The Very Silly Baker

One morning, Baker Bob woke up and decided to bake. But this was going to be a very silly day indeed!

He started with some dough. The dough was so bouncy it jumped right off his counter and rolled down the hall!

"Come back!" called Baker Bob, chasing after it.

The dough rolled into the kitchen and SPLAT!

It hit the wall. But instead of falling down, it stuck there like silly putty!

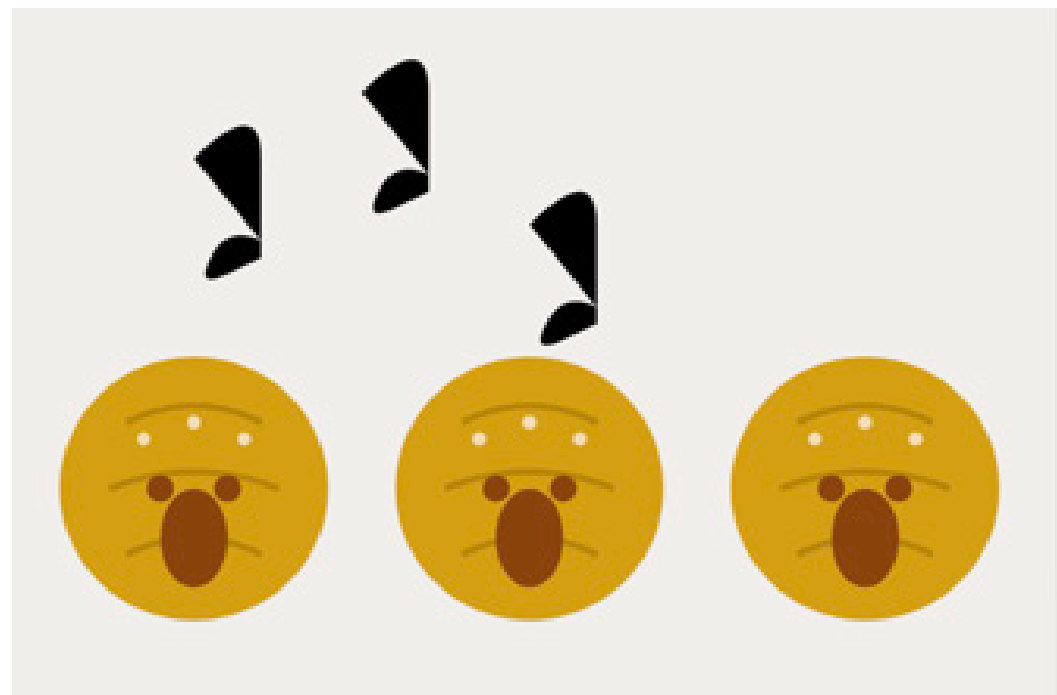

“Oh my!” said Baker Bob.
“That’s not where dough belongs!”

While he was trying to get the dough off the wall, his buns in the oven started to giggle.

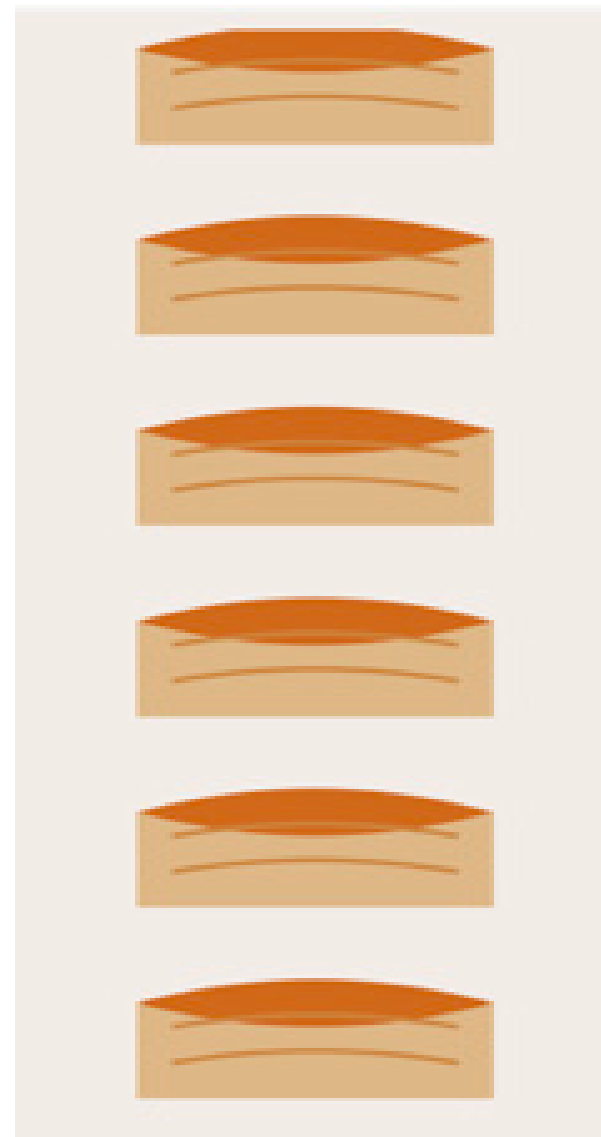

Yes, giggle! When he opened the oven door, the buns hopped out one by one, singing "La la la!"

"Buns don't sing!" said Baker Bob. But these buns did!

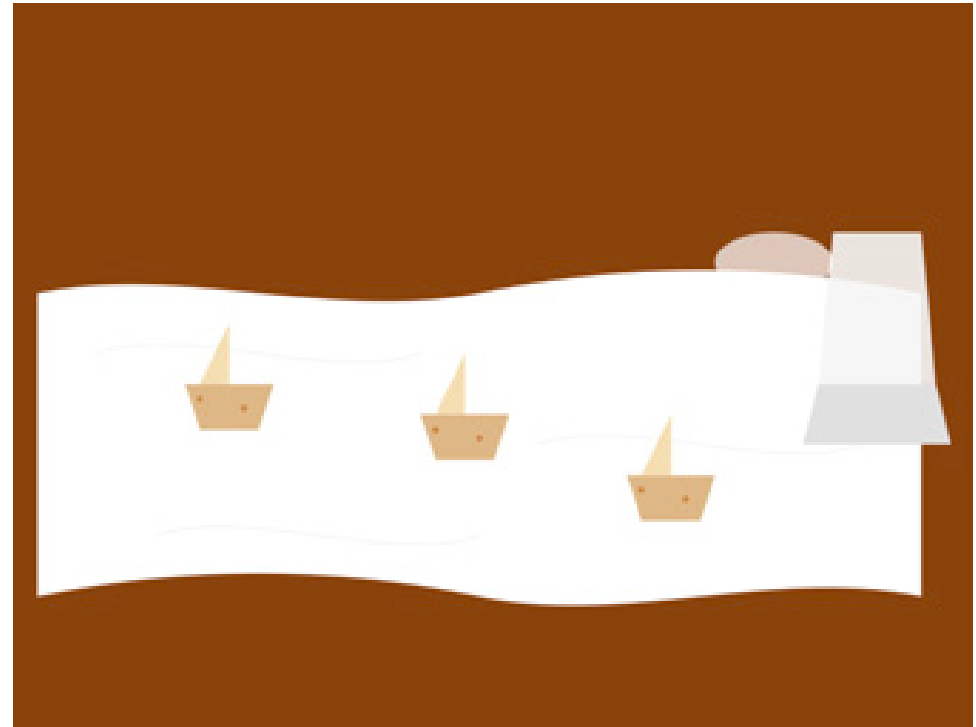

Next, his loaf of bread grew so tall it touched the ceiling. It was like a bread skyscraper!

The muffins didn't want to be left out of the fun. They started playing leap-frog over each other, leaving tiny crumbs everywhere.

His toast decided to play hide and seek. Baker Bob found pieces of toast hiding in his hat, under his cat, and even in his boots!

Last but not least, the biscuits turned into tiny boats and sailed across a river of spilled milk on his counter

“What a silly, silly day!” laughed Baker Bob. “I think my bakery has come alive!”

From that day on, Baker Bob’s shop was known as The Silly Bakery, where the bread danced, the buns sang, and everyone left with a smile and a tasty treat.

