Bee Hives

PINK STEP SET C-10 Busy Bees | Book 2

written by Elfrieda H. Hiebert & Wendy Svec

Bees make wax, which gives a hive its shape.

The babies leave the hive when they grow up.

The beeswax is left.

People use beeswax to make candles and other things.

The wax left by bees is called beeswax.

Bees build a hive.

They use wax to build it.

The wax comes from the bodies of worker bees.

A baby bee has its own room or cell.

The worker bees use wax to make little rooms or cells.

They keep baby bees in the cells.

They also store things like pollen in the cells.
