Sleet and Hail

PINK STEP SET C-11 Weather | Book 2

written by Elfrieda H. Hiebert & Wendy Svec

Sleet and hail can make a car slip on a road.

They can make you slip too.

So take care during this kind of weather.

Sleet looks like small, round balls of ice.

Sleet forms mostly in winter but hail can form in spring, summer, or fall.

Sleet is a kind of weather.

Water falls from the sky as rain.

But it turns to sleet if the ground air is cold.

Hail can bounce off your windows.

Hail is a lot like sleet.

It, too, falls from the sky when it is cold and wet out.

But hail looks like big, funny shapes of ice.
