

Lost Bike

Jake rode his bike down the street.
He saw his friend Layla.
He stopped to talk with her.

Jake wanted to see Layla's new game.
So, Jake left his bike on the sidewalk.
And they went inside Layla's house.

When Jake came back outside, the bike was gone.
Layla and Jake looked for the bike.
They asked each other, "Did someone steal the bike?"
They did not have any clues.

At five, Jake went home. It was time to eat.
He opened the door of his house.
There was his bike!

His dad had taken the bike home.
His dad said, "Leaving a bike on the sidewalk is not safe.
Someone might trip on it. Or someone might steal it."

Jake was happy to have his bike.
But he had also learned a lesson about safety.