

Photo credit: markhonosvitaly | istockphoto

The Big Dipper and the Little Dipper are two groups of stars in the sky.

Stars at Night

The sun has set. Up in the sky, stars shine.
Stars are always there in the sky.
But the bright sun hides them in the day.
Only in the dark can we spot the stars in the sky.
Groups of stars seem to make shapes.
Two shapes look like pans that are called dippers.
One group of stars is called the Big Dipper.
The other is called the Little Dipper.
Long ago, people saw these shapes.
They told stories about them.
People still look for these shapes today.
These shapes can be seen on clear nights.